Author Biography

Elio Mondello Anza He was born in Italy and has lived in six countries: Italy, the United States, the United Kingdom, Ireland, France, and Norway, where he has lived for fifteen years.

Educator, entrepreneur, and cultural bridge builder, Elio works in multicultural education and integration, specializing in supporting children with special needs and mediating between different cultures. He speaks five languages (Italian, English, French, Norwegian, and Spanish) and has dedicated his career to creating connections between seemingly distant worlds.

Founder of Mondosol, a company offering multilingual communication services and consulting for international expansion, Elio has helped dozens of entrepreneurs and families navigate the challenges of cultural integration and cross-cultural communication.

His personal experience as a "stranger everywhere" led him to reflect deeply on the themes of identity, belonging, and the meaning of "home." He experienced firsthand the challenges of integration, the richness of diversity, and the responsibility of building bridges instead of walls.

“Six Countries, One Story”This is his first literary work, the fruit of forty years of life lived across continents, languages, and cultures. It's not just a personal memoir, but a universal reflection on what it means to be human in an increasingly fragmented world.

Elio lives in Hønefoss, Norway, with his daughter Emily. He continues to teach, build bridges, and believe that the greatest legacy we can leave is not what we own, but what we do for others.
